The Italian and his companions engaged in the manufacture of candy, and sold it on the street corners. While the parents were absent from their rooms Tuesday afternoon, the door of the room in which the children were being locked. Carpenturicks applied for admittance. Being refused, he broke into the room and forced Jeannette Jackson into his own room, near by, where, it is alleged, he committed upon her a most outrageous assault. When the parents of the girl returned and were told of the circumstance, they at once had warrants issued for the arrest of the Italian. County Constable Mehrling made the arrest, and the Italian was arraigned before Magistrate Besant, who sent him to jail for a further hearing. The victim is in a pitiable condition from the shock. There is much indignation felt at the Italians, and measures will be taken to have them sent away. dilapidated building on Market street, used pro-
